India and the Philippines Q: Catching "All" in Knockout.js computed This is an example of what I am trying to do: var model = ko.observableArray(); // This updates model automatically every second function keyPress(evt) { if (evt.keyCode == "18") { model.unshift(null); } } // This is my computed observable var foo = ko.computed(function() { return ko.utils.arrayFilter(model, function(item) { return item != null }); }, model); In my example, the model is updated automatically every second. I would like the model to only be updated after a user has pressed a key for a certain amount of time, because my real-time interactions are a bit cumbersome. I would like to be able to reset the model to an "All" array every time the model has been updated for a specific amount of time. My problem is that I don't see any event that is triggered whenever the model gets "All". From what I have read, you can trigger a computed observable whenever you want by using: ko.computed.trigger(model, "change") But, this does not seem to be triggered for the "All" model. Can anybody please clarify why? A: A computed that filters your array does not immediately change the value of your observableArray. Instead, it only updates the value of its value whenever the observable changes its value. So if you want to act on it like an observable, you should do the filtering and composition at an event that triggers when the value changes. Like this: // Don't use 3e33713323
